WRONG ADDRESS WILL HOLD UP DRIVER'S PERMIT

With the arrival here Thursday of the first consignment of drivers' license application forms through the mail from Harrisburg, officials at the Gettysburg postoffice called attention again to their orders to destroy all applications that cannot be delivered to the addressee at the address given. Last year several hundred drivers in the area served by this postoffice did not receive their license applications because the forms were addressed to old places of residence and could not be delivered.

TO GIVE PLAY IN HEIDLERSBURG

"Through Other Eyes," a one-act Christmas play, will be presented by the young people of St. Mark's Lutheran church, Heidlersburg, on Sunday evening.

The characters follow: "Jennie Green," Margaret Bowers; "Mavis," Gladys Ecker; the girl "Jennie" was, Betty Jane Ecker; "Jennie's" "John" as he was, Harold Ecker; old lady "Jennie" will be, Racheal Gochenour; the woman "Jennie" should be, Pauline Reinecker; "Jo Jo," Wayne Ecker; angel, Mrs. Clarence Ecker; and "Mary," Mrs. Hugh Linah.

The play centers around "Jennie Green," a widow whose fear and ingrowing thoughts have made unresponsive to affection and human need, is impelled by strange circumstances to harbor a little girl in her home until other provisions can be made for her. The child is the imaginative type, sensitive to all the beauty and wonder of the Christmas season. Her enthusiasm and joy are met with coldness by "Jennie," who tries to convince "Mavis" that Christmas is like any ordinary day. Conversation with the child brings out the fact of her loneliness and fear for a little brother in a distant town. There is an unexpected telegram, an errand, and a visitation which shakes "Jennie" to her very soul, after which Christmas joy shines out from the windows of the erstwhile unattractive home and, best of all, from "Jennie's" eyes.

EAST BERLIN MAN JAILED 5 TO 10 YEARS FOR LARCENY

Joe E. Brown, East Berlin, who has spent seven of the last 14 years in the Huntingdon reformatory, York and Adams county jails, the Eastern penitentiary and a Maryland prison on larceny charges, was given the maximum sentence of five to 10 years in the Eastern penitentiary by Judge W. C. Sheely in court here today on another larceny count.

Brown had pleaded guilty to stealing a storage battery and gasoline worth a total of about $12 from a garage at the Teeter quarry south of here along the Littlestown highway last week. This morning he said he was "awfully sorry" and asked leniency because of his "aged parents."

Reviewing carefully Brown's long record, Judge Sheely observed that "the best place for you is where you can't get into trouble." Then he imposed the longest term ever given Brown in the 14-year-period. The judge added a $5 fine and in order to pay the costs of the case. This afternoon Brown began the trip to Philadelphia in the custody of Sheriff B. W. Spence.

The court refused petitions for parole from Howard Carbaugh, Hamiltonban township, serving a sentence for a serious offense, and Fred Sheely, Littlestown, who is in jail for violating his parole.

The bonds of County Commissioners-elect George P. Taylor and Edgar C. McDannell were approved by the court and these constables' bonds also were approved this morning: Horace L. U. S. SEIZES TWO PERKINS TRUCKS

York, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP)—Fred C. Perkins, steadfastly defying federal and state attempts to collect social security taxes, turned down today a truck offered to replace two confiscated by federal agents to satisfy tax claims.

He said he'll use his young son's light roadster and the family car to deliver his batteries and try to buy back his trucks when they are auctioned January 8.

"A Hollidaysburg trucker called me this morning and offered to send a big truck down to help me out," Perkins said, "but a 12-ton machine is too large for our needs.

The battery manufacturer said he was using his 17-year-old son's light roadster and the family car to take the place of the truck which federal agents seized Thursday.

"We'll build boxes along the sides of the roadster," Perkins said, "and if necessary on the family car to hold the batteries."

Perkins, who went to jail in 1934 rather than comply with provisions of the N.R.A., owes the federal government $105.36 in unpaid social security taxes, interest and penalties. The state also is attempting to collect $222 in unemployment compensation levies.

Perkins said he objected to paying the employer's share of social security taxes because he believes only those who will benefit from such taxes should pay them. He said his workers agreed with him.

Troop 79 Displays Program Before 350 Visitors; Will Repeat 'Fair' on Saturday

Demonstrating the varied program Troop 79 of the Boy Scouts has developed to meet the needs of Gettysburg boys, the St. James church troop conducted a "Scout Progress Fair" Thursday evening in the church basement which attracted nearly 350 adults and members of the Scout, Cub and Girl Scout organizations.

Troop officials announced the fair will be repeated Saturday evening from 7 to 10 o'clock and renewed pressing invitations to local service clubs, welfare organizations, borough officials and the public in general to inspect the display of the troop's accomplishments and its 1940 program.

Thursday evening's attendance shattered previous records set by other similar scout events to which the troop had invited the public.

Explain Exhibits

Boy and Girl Scouts and Cubs were on hand to explain to the hundreds of visitors the various exhibits of craft work, merit badge accomplishments, model camps, shop equipment and charts showing statistical information on the troop itself and its financial set up.

One room was given over entirely to displays of work done for 26 separate merit badges won by the troop members. A total of 214 badges were presented during the year, covering nearly 50 fields of study.

In the center of the main room was a model patrol camp where boys cooked a steak over an open fire while visitors looked on. Nearby was a plaster of paris model of Camp Brown, measuring 6x16 feet, which with the help of added photographs reproduced the summer camp the troop conducted near Fairfield this year.

Announce Football Schedule

The troop's football team which won five games and lost three in its first season this year displayed its 1940 schedule which includes Carson Long, Mercersburg and a tentative post-season game at Crescent City, Florida. The team will have new red and black uniforms for the next season. A spring sports program to be conducted on an inter-troop basis was indicated in mushball and track.

A room devoted to troop finances showed a budget of $1,000 for next year as compared to one of $879 for this year in which the average cost per boy was $6. The troop has equipment worth $507.38, other posters showed.

There was a colorful drum corps display of the equipment in use by Scout and Cub organizations which earned $300 this year. Displays of various types of hiking equipment, supplements with photographs of hikes taken by members were shown. Other charts showed how the troop's merit system including records from parents, Sunday school teacher, public school teacher and scoutmaster are studied for individual records.

Membership Grows

Visitors saw, too, that average weekly attendance at troop meetings grew from 28 to 45 this year, while advancements went up from 47 to 150 and 36 new members were added. In the work shops boys were busy on spinning power lathes on toys and pieces of furniture under construction. There were toys and finished products on sale. A craft room showed the wide variety of work done in many types of materials.

A poster setting forth the 1940 program "to make Gettysburg a better place for boys" called for more advancements, an enlarged manual training program, a basketball team, effective community service and an indoor recreation program in addition to present activities.

Girl Scouts had one room showing the work their 44 members have done since organization last May. Weekly meetings are held in the program which includes sports and games, out-of-door activities, homemaking, friendship, arts and crafts, community life, nature, health and safety, literature and music and dancing.

To Hold Dance in New Hall at Fairfield

Round and square dancing will be held Monday evening in the new Fairfield community hall which is rapidly being completed. The dance is being sponsored by the community and Fairfield fire company.

Two basketball games between the Fairfield and Cashtown Independent teams will be staged before the dancing. The boys' and girls' teams will play.

Refreshments will be sold.

Reductions on overcoats at Lippy's.

Gets Shelter After 2 Weeks Spent in Woods

Weak from a diet of parched grains of corn and frozen apples, a 70-year-old negro, who was near exhaustion from exposure and lack of sleep since Wednesday's snow, was brought Thursday afternoon to the county home from a Reading township woods where he had been living without shelter for two weeks.

Steward Calvin Smith, who went in search of the negro after his presence was reported to court house officials Thursday morning, said the man was found gathering twigs in the snow which he hoped to keep alive a fire that would keep him from freezing to death Thursday night.

Huddled Over Fire

On Wednesday night, Smith said, the man, who gave his name and address as Cleveland Carter, of Staunton, Virginia, had sat on a few stones and huddled over a little fire built in the snow in a woods on the former Jacobs farm directly

WRONG ADDRESS WILL HOLD UP DRIVER'S PERMIT

With the arrival here Thursday of the first consignment of drivers' license application forms through the mail from Harrisburg, officials at the Gettysburg postoffice called attention again to their orders to destroy all applications that cannot be delivered to the addressee at the address given. Some of the first consignment were not delivered on Thursday for that reason.

Last year several hundred drivers in the area served by this postoffice did not receive their license applications because the forms were addressed to old places of residence and could not be delivered.

A change in street number is enough to bar delivery, it was pointed out. Failure to notify the state Department of Revenue of changes of address for the purposes of records of operators and owners of automobiles in this state is punishable by a $10 fine.

County Team To Judge Apples Will Be Chosen

The Adams County Horticultural society will again sponsor a boys' apple judging team to represent the county at the state farm products show at Harrisburg during the week of January 15 to 20, it was announced today.

Any boy between the age of ten and twenty years is eligible to try out for the team.

On Tuesday, January 2, at 7:30 p. m. at the court house, an apple judging contest will be conducted for the purpose of selecting an apple judging team. After the judging team has been selected, the boys will be given special training in identification and judging of apples.

During the last two years the county apple judging team has placed second in the state contest.

Boys who have represented Adams county on the judging team in the past will not be eligible to compete.

Drivers and Coasters Warned About "Towing"

State motor police here issued a warning today to motorists and sledders alike against the practice of "towing" coasters with autos or trucks.

The police pointed out the dangers involved and reminded the public there is a fine of $25 for operators who allow sledders to take "lifts" by holding to their cars while the coasters themselves may be fined $2 each.

Troop 79 Displays Program Before 350 Visitors; Will Repeat 'Fair' on Saturday

Demonstrating the varied program Troop 79 of the Boy Scouts has developed to meet the needs of Gettysburg boys, the St. James church troop conducted a "Scout Progress Fair" Thursday evening in the church basement which attracted nearly 350 adults and members of the Scout, Cub and Girl Scout organizations.

Troop officials announced the fair will be repeated Saturday evening from 7 to 10 o'clock and renewed pressing invitations to local service clubs, welfare organizations, borough officials and the public in general to inspect the display of the troop's accomplishments and its 1940 program.

Thursday evening's attendance shattered previous records set by other similar scout events to which the troop had invited the public.

Explain Exhibits

Boy and Girl Scouts and Cubs were on hand to explain to the hundreds of visitors the various exhibits of craft work, merit badge accomplishments, model camps, shop equipment and charts showing statistical information on the troop itself and its financial set up.

One room was given over entirely to displays of work done for 26 separate merit badges won by the troop members. A total of 214 badges were presented during the year, covering nearly 50 fields of study.

In the center of the main room was a model patrol camp where boys cooked a steak over an open fire while visitors looked on. Nearby was a plaster of paris model of Camp Brown, measuring 6x16 feet, which with the help of added photographs reproduced the summer camp the troop conducted near Fairfield this year.

Announce Football Schedule

The troop's football team which won five games and lost three in its first season this year displayed its 1940 schedule which includes Carson Long, Mercersburg and a tentative post-season game at Crescent City, Florida. The team will have new red and black uniforms for the next season. A spring sports program to be conducted on an inter-troop basis was indicated in mushball and track.

A room devoted to troop finances showed a budget of $1,000 for next year as compared to one of $879 for this year in which the average cost per boy was $6. The troop has equipment worth $507.38, other posters showed.

There was a colorful drum corps display of the equipment in use by Scout and Cub organizations which earned $300 this year. Displays of various types of hiking equipment, supplements with photographs of hikes taken by members were shown. Other charts showed how the troop's merit system including records from parents, Sunday school teacher, public school teacher and scoutmaster are studied for individual records.

Membership Grows

Visitors saw, too, that average weekly attendance at troop meetings grew from 28 to 45 this year, while advancements went up from 47 to 150 and 36 new members were added. In the work shops boys were busy on spinning power lathes on toys and pieces of furniture under construction. There were toys and finished products on sale. A craft room showed the wide variety of work done in many types of materials.

A poster setting forth the 1940 program "to make Gettysburg a better place for boys" called for more advancements, an enlarged manual training program, a basketball team, effective community service and an indoor recreation program in addition to present activities.

Girl Scouts had one room showing the work their 44 members have done since organization last May. Weekly meetings are held in the program which includes sports and games, out-of-door activities, homemaking, friendship, arts and crafts, community life, nature, health and safety, literature and music and dancing.

To Hold Dance in New Hall at Fairfield

Round and square dancing will be held Monday evening in the new Fairfield community hall which is rapidly being completed. The dance is being sponsored by the community and Fairfield fire company.

Two basketball games between the Fairfield and Cashtown Independent teams will be staged before the dancing. The boys' and girls' teams will play.

Refreshments will be sold.

Reductions on overcoats at Lippy's.

County Agent M. T. Hartman is especially interested in having the county well represented at the meeting in order that those present may decide whether or not similar meetings should be held in various parts of the county.

Soil management is an important factor to successful farming, and special thought and attention to this big problem should prove helpful to the agricultural interests of Adams county, the county agent pointed out.

TO GIVE PLAY IN HEIDLERSBURG

"Through Other Eyes," a one-act Christmas play, will be presented by the young people of St. Mark's Lutheran church, Heidlersburg, on Sunday evening.

The characters follow: "Jennie Green," Margaret Bowers; "Mavis," Gladys Ecker; the girl "Jennie" was, Betty Jane Ecker; "Jennie's" "John" as he was, Harold Ecker; old lady "Jennie" will be, Racheal Gochenour; the woman "Jennie" should be, Pauline Reinecker; "Jo Jo," Wayne Ecker; angel, Mrs. Clarence Ecker; and "Mary," Mrs. Hugh Linah.

The play centers around "Jennie Green," a widow whose fear and ingrowing thoughts have made unresponsive to affection and human need, is impelled by strange circumstances to harbor a little girl in her home until other provisions can be made for her. The child is the imaginative type, sensitive to all the beauty and wonder of the Christmas season. Her enthusiasm and joy are met with coldness by "Jennie," who tries to convince "Mavis" that Christmas is like any ordinary day. Conversation with the child brings out the fact of her loneliness and fear for a little brother in a distant town. There is an unexpected telegram, an errand, and a visitation which shakes "Jennie" to her very soul, after which Christmas joy shines out from the windows of the erstwhile unattractive home and, best of all, from "Jennie's" eyes.

EAST BERLIN MAN JAILED 5 TO 10 YEARS FOR LARCENY

Joe E. Brown, East Berlin, who has spent seven of the last 14 years in the Huntingdon reformatory, York and Adams county jails, the Eastern penitentiary and a Maryland prison on larceny charges, was given the maximum sentence of five to 10 years in the Eastern penitentiary by Judge W. C. Sheely in court here today on another larceny count.

Brown had pleaded guilty to stealing a storage battery and gasoline worth a total of about $12 from a garage at the Teeter quarry south of here along the Littlestown highway last week. This morning he said he was "awfully sorry" and asked leniency because of his "aged parents."

Reviewing carefully Brown's long record, Judge Sheely observed that "the best place for you is where you can't get into trouble." Then he imposed the longest term ever given Brown in the 14-year-period. The judge added a $5 fine and an order to pay the costs of the case. This afternoon Brown began the trip to Philadelphia in the custody of Sheriff B. W. Spence.

Parole Petition Denied

Today's session of court is the last for county officials whose terms end next week. The group includes District Attorney John P. Butt, Sheriff Spence, Prothonotary C. Arthur Brame and Associate Judges John C. Bream and F. X. Colgan. Judge Colgan was not on the bench this morning.

The court refused petitions for parole from Howard Carbaugh, Hamiltonban township, serving a sentence for a serious offense, and Fred Sheely, Littlestown, who is in jail for violating his parole.

The bonds of County Commissioners-elect George P. Taylor and Edgar C. McDannell were approved by the court and these constables' bonds also were approved this morning: Horace L. Bender, third ward of Gettysburg; Norman E. Riley, Liberty township; W. E. Sites, first ward of Littlestown; H. S. Roberts, second ward of Littlestown; Luther Topper, Franklin township, and Charles F. Harner, new constable in Cumberland township.

Divorce Refused

U. S. SEIZES TWO PERKINS TRUCKS

York, Pa., Dec 29 (AP)—Fred C. Perkins, steadfastly defying federal and state attempts to collect social security taxes, turned down today a truck offered to replace two confiscated by federal agents to satisfy tax claims.

He said he'll use his young son's light roadster and the family car to deliver his batteries and try to buy back his trucks when they are auctioned January 8.

"A Hollidaysburg trucker called me this morning and offered to send a big truck down to help me out," Perkins said, "but a 12-ton machine is too large for our needs.

The battery manufacturer said he was using his 17-year-old son's light roadster and the family car to take the place of the truck which federal agents seized Thursday.

"We'll build boxes along the sides of the roadster," Perkins said, "and if necessary on the family car to hold the batteries."

Perkins, who went to jail in 1934 rather than comply with provisions of the N.R.A., owes the federal government $105.36 in unpaid social security taxes, interest and penalties. The state also is attempting to collect $222 in unemployment compensation levies.

Perkins said he objected to paying the employer's share of social security taxes because he believes only those who will benefit from such taxes should pay them. He said his workers agreed with him.

LEUKEMIA VICTIM DIES

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 28 (AP)—Surrounded with Christmas gifts, five-year-old Geraldine Louise Bunn died quietly Wednesday night of the dreaded blood disease leukemic leukemia which causes red corpuscles to disappear from the blood stream. She had realized a last request to end a two months' stay in the hospital and spend the Yuletide at home. Omar Johns, two, another victim of the disease, spent Christmas at home and returned to the hospital.

POPULAR BOOK

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—A dingy volume in the Library of Congress, entitled "The Influence of Sea Power on History," is currently as popular as a recent "best seller" among some of the nation's lawmakers. Many senators and house members, boning for an expected debate on naval appropriations when congress opens, have called for the book, written 50 years ago by Captain Alfred Mahan. The book, still regarded as the foremost treatise on naval power, is supposed to have helped to form the doctrine which inspired the Kaiser to start Germany on its big naval building program early in this century.

NAZIS TORPEDO BATTLESHIP OFF SCOTTISH COAST

(By the Associated Press)

Soviet warplanes struck anew at Finnish railway junctions and southern coastal cities today while Germany reported a new blow at British sea power.

The German supreme command announced that a British battleship of the Queen Elizabeth class had been torpedoed by a German submarine "west of Scotland."

The Germans added nothing further about the ship's fate on her precise identity.

The British admiralty announced today that a German submarine had attacked a British battleship, killing three men and causing "some damage."

It was asserted unofficially that the battleship was safe after the attack and was proceeding on her course.

Reds Attack Rail Centers

There are five ships of the Queen Elizabeth class, vessels of 30,600 or 31,100 tons, which were constructed before the World war. Eight 15-inch guns are mounted on each.

Finland's rail centers and coastal towns suffered new air attacks after official Finnish reports told of flights by Finnish airmen Thursday to attack "the enemy's rear, on both sides of the frontier."

Continued success in holding back the Russian invasion was reported by the Finns who have carried the war to Russian soil on the eastern front, where ski-patrols are striking toward the Murmansk railway, Soviet Arctic supply route.

Faced with stubborn resistance, Russia was reported reliably to have changed her military commander in charge of the Finnish campaign.

General G. M. Stern, Soviet hero of far eastern fighting against Japan, was said to be the new commander of the Leningrad military district which is the base for operations against Finland. General K. A. Meretskoff, these reports said, was called on the carpet December 22 for his failure to overcome the Finns and was replaced.

Dis-satisfied with the treatment of Russian-Finnish war news in the British, French and American press Russia re-imposed censorship of dispatches before transmission.

Wintry weather, a major factor in the Russian-Finnish war, blanketed the western European front where little fighting has occurred in almost four months of a state of war.

Germany said the front was quiet except for "minor artillery disturbance fire."

The far east's older war, which has continued since July, 1937, was said by the Japanese to have resulted in death of 1,218,461 Chinese troops through November, 1939.

Japan put her own dead and wounded at 27,000 between October, 1938, and December, 1939.

Gets Shelter After 2 Weeks Spent in Woods

Asked by Mr. Smith and Willis Thomas, who guided the county home steward to the section where Carter had been last seen, whether he would like to go to a warm house where there would be plenty of food and clothing, Carter mumbled: "Thank God for that."

On the way to the county home the exhausted man fell asleep in the heated car in the first comfort he had known in days. At the county home his ragged clothing was burned and others was provided. He was given food and a bath and comfortable quarters for as long as he wishes to remain before heading south.

Residents of the Round Hill section said that Carter had been seen occasionally during the last two weeks. He never begged for food or asked shelter, but lived in the woods, carefully observing owners' demands that his camp fires be well guarded against spreading. Apparently his only source of food was grains of corn from scattered ears missed by harvesters in cornfields in that section and frozen apples he found on the ground in nearby orchards.

For some time he had lived in woodland on the Willis Thomas land, but later he moved to the Round Hill farm where U. H. Cromer now resides.

After Wednesday's snow Carter had not been seen and residents worried about his welfare. It was Job Starry, of Five Points, who came to Gettysburg Thursday and reported the matter to the county commissioners who handle affairs at the county home. Finally Steward Smith and two helpers at the home were dispatched to locate the man and offer him the shelter of the county home.

It is believed that the exposure and near starvation diet may have affected his reason and possibly explains his failure to ask for help.

Dr. C. G. Crist, physician for the county home, examined Carter and said that his hands and feet were frozen.

EAST BERLIN MAN JAILED 5 TO 10 YEARS

Julia A. McCann vs. Joseph E. McCann, McSherrystown, and refused the divorce. The libellant, Mrs. McCann, must pay the costs. The divorce was asked on grounds of desertion and indignities to the person. The master in the case had recommended to the court that the divorce be refused on the grounds that the alleged causes for divorce had not been established. Exceptions which were filed to that report were disposed of by the court opinion today.

Stanley F. Boltz, of near Gettysburg, came before the court today for sentence on two larceny counts on which he had entered pleas of guilty. When he told Judge Sheely that he was not guilty in one case but had agreed to sign the plea at the suggestion of Walter F. Crouse, the prosecutor, the court granted him permission to change his plea and continued the case for trial next month. Sentence on the second count, in which Boltz is charged with stealing 30 bushels of corn, was postponed. Crouse had accused Boltz of taking cigarettes worth $10 from a vending machine.

When Emory R. Boose, Thompson, Pa., failed to appear for sentence on a drunken driving charge to which he had pleaded guilty, the court ordered a process issued for his arrest and directed the district attorney's office to proceed immediately with the collection of the $500 bail posted for Boose's appearance. Edward Toddes, Gettysburg, R. D., is on the bond.

Court adjourned at 12:20 this afternoon until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

2 Burn to Death Near Chambersburg

Chambersburg, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP)—Samuel Moore, 30, of Columbus, Ohio, and Kathryn Smith, 19, of Grafton, West Virginia, negroes, burned to death today in a fire which destroyed a settlement house of workers on the state's new turnpike at Amberson.

The victims were trapped as they tried to escape. Five others in the house climbed out a window.

Dr. A. W. Thrush, Franklin county coroner, said the blaze started in a cookstove.

Ex-Budget Director Gets Treasury Post

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt announced today that he would name Daniel W. Bell, former acting budget director, to the vacant post of undersecretary of the Treasury.

APPLY FOR LICENSE

A marriage license application was filed here Thursday afternoon by Merle Rudisill Bittle, son of Mrs. Daisy A. Bittle, White Hall, and Leona Grace Arentz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Arentz, Hanover R. 3.

TRADING SLOWED

Budapest, Dec. 29 (AP)—Snowstorms and freezing of the Danube river reduced to a trickle today the flow of goods from southeastern Europe to Germany. All German, Hungarian and Rumanian river boats were tied up as temperatures sank as low as 22 degrees below zero and the Danube was clogged with ice.

STORM, LOOTERS AND DISEASE ADD TO QUAKE TERROR

Ankara, Dec. 29 (AP)—A mounting death toll in earthquake-stricken Anatolia today led officials to express belief the total dead might reach 50,000 as cold, looters and disease created new perils for survivors of the Wednesday catastrophe.

Relief trains rushed food and medical supplies to the shattered quake zone, but wrecked communication facilities and a raging blizzard made it seem certain additional thousands would die of injuries and exposure before help could reach them.

Fears of new tremors, predicted by Turkish seismologists, added to the terror of the quake region.

Officials had put the dead and injured in Erzincan province alone at 42,000.

It was said that "nnmberless thousands" of persons remained buried in the ruins of buildings.

Special trains bearing hundreds of doctors with supplies and medicines managed to reach some of the ravaged areas isolated since the great temblors of Wednesday.

They were unable to reach many localities because of blocked roads and collapsed bridges.

As one single item of the tragedy, they reported finding great numbers of stray children in pitiful condition in the mountainous, icy woods.

Three additional earth shocks Thursday night added to distress in the ravaged area of east central Turkey.

Panic-stricken, many persons prostrated themselves in the snow before ruined mosques to pray for deliverance. Minarets had been toppled on sleeping townsfolk in the first shock.

Other miserable survivors huddled in the fields, where many froze to death.

Bitter cold, ranging to 22 degrees Fahrenheit below zero, hampered efforts to extinguish the fires that burned in nearly every village and town.

Martial law was proclaimed, and rifle-bearing soldiers had orders to shoot looters on sight.

TWINS UNITED BY COURT ORDER

Williamsport, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP)—Judge Mortimer C. Rhone today reunited a twin brother and sister on their tenth birthday anniversary by awarding custody of the girl to her parents.

At the same time the judge placed all costs of the custody suit, under way here since before Christmas, upon the parents of Ellen Ethel Arlow, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Arlow, of Toronto, Ontario.

Shortly after the girl's birth in Cleveland, they left her voluntarily with Mrs. Ira Reynolds, now of Williamsport, and the child's foster-mother became to attached to the curly-locked child that she declined to give her up.

Judge Rhone attached two conditions to his decision:

1. That Canadian immigration authorities will permit Ellen Ethel to visit Canada as the daughter of the Arlows.

2. That a physician in Williamsport will release the child (who is ill with tonsilitis.)

Judge Rhone in his opinion told the parents of the child:

"It is your duty to make some reparation (to Mrs. Reynolds) for the child's expenses and care. You must agree to permit her to visit Ellen Ethel, because in removing the child from her custody now it will be a severe blow."

President's Son And Wife Injured

Winchester, Va., Dec. 29 (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his wife suffered lacerations and bruises in an automobile accident early today as they were driving to Washington from a northern Virginia party.

They were brought to Memorial hospital by an unidentified motorist after their car rammed a parked truck east of Winchester. The young Roosevelts walked into the hospital unassisted, and attendants expressed belief they would be able to leave later today.

The President's wife arrived here by automobile from Washington shortly after 8 a. m. and summoned a Washington physician, to consult with Dr. Robert F. Cline.

Doctor Cline said young Mrs. Roosevelt's injuries included a lacerated forehead and right ear, scratches and abrasions, and that her husband suffered lacerations on the forehead and right arm, a small laceration on the upper left arm and scratches and abrasions. The injuries, he said, apparently were from flying glass.

Occupants of the truck were not hurt.

The President's son is a law student at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville where he and his wife, the former Ethel DuPont, maintain their home.

Sports Roundup

By ROBERT MYERS

(Sitting in for Eddie Brietz)

Los Angeles Dec 29 (AP) — Todays boldest prediction the 1941 Rose Bowl game will be between the Washington Huskies and the winner of the Texas Texas A and M war at Austin.

Tidbits odd and otherwise Kayak II is the solid horse to win the $100 000 Santa Anita handicap but Seabiscuit is still the peoples sentimental favorite Sammy Baugh evidently wasn t kidding last fall when he said Andy Farkas would be a sensation with the Washington Redskins The pro footballers incidentally are drilling quietly for their annual pro-bowl game here January 7 the Green Bay packers going against the National league all stars in the affair Green Bay and Washington were voted the most colorful pro clubs ever to show here Red Grange was the onman riot Harry (Truck) Hanneth new boss of the Memphis club went into a huddle with Tennessee sports writers over the baseball prospects and emerged from the conference offering to bet that the Vols trim Southern California New Years Day

Speaking of the Rose Bowl as who out here isn t those Dallas Cotton Bowl folks certainly gave the Rose people a scare when they nearly signed Tennessee and the Texas Aggies for their game Client from Santa Catalina island wants to know if Charlie Grimm and his banjo will pay a visit to the Chicago Cub training camp in March Lou Novikoff of the Los Angeles baseball club voted the No 1 player of the minor leagues was the most feared batter in the coast league The pitchers weren t so afraid he d belt the ball out of the park as they were of getting a leg taken off by the horsehide There is a $100 000 price tag on him by the way

The wolves are still on the prowl Mike Pecarovich of Loyola at Los Angeles is under fire Mike s first season was poor but his material was poorer and his luck was worse than that Strictly of the rumor variety Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago has been mentioned in connection with the job It would be the second Loyola he would coach He used to be at Loyola at New Orleans Odd that Loyola down there abandoned football just a few days before Chicago dropped the sport

William H (Bill) Spaulding, for years coach at U C L A and now athletic director drew the biggest hand of all when he was called on to take a bow at a home coming banquet at ot all places U S C The ovation was so tremendous the toastmaster changed signals and called on Bill to make a speech

The golfing pros go into the 1940 merry-go-round next week in the Los Angeles open. Watch out that an amateur doesn't win the event. His name is Bud Ward of Spokane, Washington. After the L A comes the Oakland San Francisco and Bing Crosby's tournament at Del Mar Ask Bing by the way to play his latest recording the one where he blew up at the finish and inquires what became of eight bars of the song You won t find the record at the music counter

Today's guest star Jack Troy of the Atlanta Constitution—U S C had better quit worrying whether George Cafego s knee is good or bad and think about this boy Johnny Butler He s the young man who really carried Tennessee into the Rose Bowl and he s liable to carry S C out of it — feet first

Arendtsville Cagers Win Double-Header

The Arendtsville Apple Pickers won a pair of basketball games Thursday evening at Arendtsville defeating Barlow 32-24 and the Gettysburg Blue Jackets 62 26 Barlow furnished keen competition in the game but the Blue Jackets were no match for their opponents

A full sports program is listed for the Bullet gymnasium on January 6. In the afternoon William Sheridan, Lehigh wrestling coach, will conduct the first wrestling clinic to be held at Gettysburg college. Preceding the Lehigh-Gettysburg cage game in the evening Coach Pete Beeson's grapplers clash with the grunt-and-groan artists of C. C. N. Y.

The New York university basketball team, which meets the Gettysburg college dribblers here February 13, justified its rating as one of the strongest teams in the east by walloping Missouri in its first real test this season, 68-47, Thursday evening. The Violets have been rated with Long Island and Duquesne as the east's best. Captain Bob Lewis, Ben Auerbach and Ralph Kaplowitz are the stars of the New Yorkers. Lewis was the leading scorer in the Metropolitan league last year.

Sports Roundup

By ROBERT MYERS
(Sitting in for Eddie Brietz)

Los Angeles, Dec. 29 (AP) — Today's boldest prediction: the 1941 Rose Bowl game will be between the Washington Huskies and the winner of the Texas-Texas A. and M. war at Austin.

Tidbits, odd and otherwise: Kayak II is the solid horse to win the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, but Seabiscuit is still the people's sentimental favorite . . . Sammy Baugh evidently wasn't kidding last fall when he said Andy Farkas would be a sensation with the Washington Redskins . . . The pro footballers, incidentally, are drilling quietly for their annual pro-bowl game here January 7, the Green Bay packers going against the National league all-stars in the affair . . . Green Bay and Washington were voted the most colorful pro clubs ever to show here . . . Red Grange was the onman riot . . . Harry (Truck) Hannah, new boss of the Memphis club, went into a huddle with Tennessee sports writers over the baseball prospects and emerged from the conference offering to bet that the Vols trim Southern California New Year's Day.

Speaking of the Rose Bowl, as who out here isn't, those Dallas Cotton Bowl folks certainly gave the Rose people a scare when they nearly signed Tennessee and the Texas Aggies for their game . . . Client from Santa Catalina island wants to know if Charlie Grimm and his banjo will pay a visit to the Chicago Cub training camp in March . . . Lou Novikoff of the Los Angeles baseball club, voted the No. 1 player of the minor leagues, was the most feared batter in the coast league. The pitchers weren't so afraid he'd belt the ball out of the park as they were of getting a leg taken off by the horsehide. There is a $100,000 price tag on him, by the way.

The wolves are still on the prowl. Mike Pecarovich of Loyola at Los Angeles is under fire. Mike's first season was poor, but his material was poorer and his luck was worse than that. Strictly of the rumor variety, Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago has been mentioned in connection with the job. It would be the second Loyola he would coach. He used to be at Loyola at New Orleans. Odd that Loyola down there abandoned football just a few days before Chicago dropped the sport.

William H. (Bill) Spauling, for years coach at U.C.L.A. and now athletic director, drew the biggest hand of all when he was called on to take a bow at a home-coming banquet at, of all places, U.S.C. The ovation was so tremendous the toastmaster changed signals and called on Bill to make a speech.

The golfing pros go into the 1940 merry-go-round next week in the Los Angeles open. Watch out that an amateur doesn't win the event. His name is Bud Ward of Spokane, Washington. After the L.A. comes the Oakland, San Francisco and Bing Crosby's tournament at Del Mar. Ask Bing, by the way, to play his latest recording; the one where he "blew up" at the finish and inquires what became of eight bars of the song. You won't find the record at the music counter.

Today's guest star: Jack Troy of the Atlanta Constitution—U.S.C. had better quit worrying whether George Cafego's knee is good or bad and think about this boy Johnny Butler. He's the young man who really carried Tennessee into the Rose Bowl, and he's liable to carry S.C. out of it — feet first.

CAUTION URGED

Chicago, Dec. 29 (AP).—The waning year might have a better highway safety record than 1938—provided the nation doesn't go on a traffic spree this week-end. So said the National Traffic council today in reporting that traffic deaths for the first 11 months of this year were only 1 per cent under those of the same 1938 period. The 1938 death toll was 32,400. There were 28,690 traffic deaths during the first 11 months of 1939.

NAZIS TORPEDO BATTLESHIP OFF SCOTTISH COAST

(By the Associated Press).

Soviet warplanes struck anew at Finnish railway junctions and southern coastal cities today while Germany reported a new blow at British sea power.

The German supreme command announced that a British battleship of the Queen Elizabeth class had been torpedoed by a German submarine "west of Scotland."

The British admiralty announced today that a German submarine had attacked a British battleship, killing three men and causing "some damage."

It was asserted unofficially that the battleship was safe after the attack and was proceeding on her course.

Reds Attack Rail Centers

There are five ships of the Queen Elizabeth class, vessels of 30,600 or 31,100 tons, which were constructed before the World war. Eight 15-inch guns are mounted on each.

Finland's rail centers and coastal towns suffered new air attacks after official Finnish reports told of flights by Finnish airmen Thursday to attack "the enemy's rear, on both sides of the frontier."

Continued success in holding back the Russian invasion was reported by the Finns who have carried the war to Russian soil on the eastern front, where ski-patrols are striking toward the Murmansk railway, Soviet Arctic supply route.

Faced with stubborn resistance, Russia was reported reliably to have changed her military commander in charge of the Finnish campaign.

General G. M. Stern, Soviet hero of far eastern fighting against Japan, was said to be the new commander of the Leningrad military district which is the base for operations against Finland. General K. A. Meretskoff, these reports said, was called on the carpet December 22 for his failure to overcome the Finns and was replaced.

Dis-satisfied with the treatment of Russian-Finnish war news in the British, French and American press Russia re-imposed censorship of dispatches before transmission.

Wintry weather, a major factor in the Russian-Finnish war, blanketed the western European front where little fighting has occurred in almost four months of a state of war.

Germany said the front was quiet except for "minor artillery disturbance fire."

The far east's older war, which has continued since July, 1937, was said by the Japanese to have resulted in death of 1,218,461 Chinese troops through November, 1939.

Japan put her own dead and wounded at 27,000 between October, 1938, and December, 1939.

Gets Shelter After 2 Weeks Spent in Woods

Asked by Mr. Smith and Willis Thomas, who guided the county home steward to the section where Carter had been last seen, whether he would like to go to a warm house where there would be plenty of food and clothing, Carter mumbled: "Thank God for that."

On the way to the county home the exhausted man fell asleep in the heated car in the first comfort he had known in days. At the county home his ragged clothing was burned and others was provided. He was given food and a bath and comfortable quarters for as long as he wishes to remain before heading south.

Residents of the Round Hill section said that Carter had been seen occasionally during the last two weeks. He never begged for food or asked shelter, but lived in the woods, carefully observing owners' demands that his camp fires be well guarded against spreading. Apparently his only source of food was grains of corn from scattered ears missed by harvesters in cornfields in that section and frozen apples he found on the ground in nearby orchards.

For some time he had lived in woodland on the Willis Thomas land, but later he moved to the Round Hill farm where U. H. Cromer now resides.

After Wednesday's snow Carter had not been seen and residents worried about his welfare. It was Job Starry, of Five Points, who came to Gettysburg Thursday and reported the matter to the county commissioners who handle affairs at the county home. Finally Steward Smith and two helpers at the home were dispatched to locate the man and offer him the shelter of the county home.

It is believed that the exposure and near starvation diet may have affected his reason and possibly explains his failure to ask for help.

Dr. C. G. Crist, physician for the county home, examined Carter and said that his hands and feet were frozen.

EAST BERLIN MAN JAILED 5 TO 10 YEARS

Julia A. McCann vs. Joseph E. McCann, McSherrystown, and refused the divorce. The libellant, Mrs. McCann, must pay the costs. The divorce was asked on grounds of desertion and indignities to the person. The master in the case had recommended to the court that the divorce be refused on the grounds that the alleged causes for divorce had not been established. Exceptions which were filed to that report were disposed of by the court opinion today.

Stanley F. Boltz, of near Gettysburg, came before the court today for sentence on two larceny counts on which he had entered pleas of guilty. When he told Judge Sheely that he was not guilty in one case but had agreed to sign the plea at the suggestion of Walter F. Crouse, the prosecutor, the court granted him permission to change his plea and continued the case for trial next month. Sentence on the second count, in which Boltz is charged with stealing 30 bushels of corn, was postponed. Crouse had accused Boltz of taking cigarettes worth $10 from a vending machine.

When Emory R. Boose, Thompson, Pa., failed to appear for sentence on a drunken driving charge to which he had pleaded guilty, the court ordered a process issued for his arrest and directed the district attorney's office to proceed immediately with the collection of the $500 bail posted for Boose's appearance. Edward Toddes, Gettysburg, R. D., is on the bond.

Court adjourned at 12:20 this afternoon until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The victims were trapped as they tried to escape. Five others in the house climbed out a window.

Dr. A. W. Thrush, Franklin county coroner, said the blaze started in a cookstove.

APPLY FOR LICENSE

A marriage license application was filed here Thursday afternoon by Merle Rudisill Bittle, son of Mrs. Daisy A. Bittle, White Hall, and Leona Grace Arentz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Arentz, Hanover R. 3.

TRADING SLOWED

Budapest, Dec. 29 (AP)—Snowstorms and freezing of the Danube river reduced to a trickle today the flow of goods from southeastern Europe to Germany. All German, Hungarian and Rumanian river boats were tied up as temperatures sank as low as 22 degrees below zero and the Danube was clogged with ice.

STORM, LOOTERS AND DISEASE ADD TO QUAKE TERROR

Ankara, Dec. 29 (AP)—A mounting death toll in earthquake-stricken Anatolia today led officials to express belief the total dead might reach 50,000 as cold, looters and disease created new perils for survivors of the Wednesday catastrophe.

Relief trains rushed food and medical supplies to the shattered quake zone, but wrecked communication facilities and a raging blizzard made it seem certain additional thousands would die of injuries and exposure before help could reach them.

Fears of new tremors, predicted by Turkish seismologists, added to the terror of the quake region.

Officials had put the dead and injured in Erzincan province alone at 42,000.

It was said that "numberless thousands" of persons remained buried in the ruins of buildings.

Special trains bearing hundreds of doctors with supplies and medicines managed to reach some of the ravaged areas isolated since the great temblors of Wednesday.

They were unable to reach many localities because of blocked roads and collapsed bridges.

As one single item of the tragedy, they reported finding great numbers of stray children in pitiful condition in the mountainous, icy woods.

Three additional earth shocks Thursday night added to distress in the ravaged area of east central Turkey.

Panic-stricken, many persons prostrated themselves in the snow before ruined mosques to pray for deliverance. Minarets had been toppled on sleeping townsfolk in the first shock.

Other miserable survivors huddled in the fields, where many froze to death.

Bitter cold, ranging to 22 degrees Fahrenheit below zero, hampered efforts to extinguish the fires that burned in nearly every village and town.

Martial law was proclaimed, and rifle-bearing soldiers had orders to shoot looters on sight.

TWINS UNITED BY COURT ORDER

Williamsport, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP)—Judge Mortimer C. Rhone today reunited a twin brother and sister on their tenth birthday anniversary by awarding custody of the girl to her parents.

At the same time the judge placed all costs of the custody suit, under way here since before Christmas, upon the parents of Ellen Ethel Arlow, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Arlow, of Toronto, Ontario.

Shortly after the girl's birth in Cleveland, they left her voluntarily with Mrs. Ira Reynolds, now of Williamsport, and the child's foster-mother became so attached to the curly-locked child that she declined to give her up.

Judge Rhone attached two conditions to his decision:

1. That Canadian immigration authorities will permit Ellen Ethel to visit Canada as the daughter of the Arlows.

2. That a physician in Williamsport will release the child (who is ill with tonsilitis.)

Judge Rhone in his opinion told the parents of the child:

"It is your duty to make some reparation (to Mrs. Reynolds) for the child's expenses and care. You must agree to permit her to visit Ellen Ethel, because in removing the child from her custody now it will be a severe blow."

President's Son And Wife Injured

Winchester, Va., Dec. 29 (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his wife suffered lacerations and bruises in an automobile accident early today as they were driving to Washington from a northern Virginia party.

They were brought to Memorial hospital by an unidentified motorist after their car rammed a parked truck east of Winchester. The young Roosevelts walked into the hospital unassisted, and attendants expressed belief they would be able to leave later today.

The President's wife arrived here by automobile from Washington shortly after 8 a. m. and summoned a Washington physician, to consult with Dr. Robert F. Cline.

Doctor Cline said young Mrs. Roosevelt's injuries included a lacerated forehead and right ear, scratches and abrasions, and that her husband suffered lacerations on the forehead and right arm, a small laceration on the upper left arm and scratches and abrasions. The injuries, he said, apparently were from flying glass.

Occupants of the truck were not hurt.

The President's son is a law student at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville where he and his wife, the former Ethel DuPont, maintain their home.

CRANKMIRE ON MEN

Said Old Crankmire: "We hear about gunfire and gas
And the evils of nations and men in the mass.
We hear of explosions and ships sunk at sea
Which proves just how cruel we humans can be,
But it's only the few ever hear of the man
Who goes about doing the good that he can.

"In nations and races mankind at the best,
Has little to boast of it must be confessed.
All history tells us they've slaughtered and slain
Their fellows in warfare advantage to gain.
But left to himself every man of the clan
Is eager to do all the good that he can.

"As a neighbor, a man will go out of his way
To all who may need it a kind word to say.
He'll think of the lonely, the sick and the sad
He'll stick to the bargain which proves to be bad.
In matters of honor he'll keep to his word,
Which nations and races consider absurd.

"Mankind in the mass seems a horrible thing,
But it's not to that sort of a fellow I cling.
My hope's in that man which all neighborhoods know,
The friend in the dark hours of trouble and woe,
The kind and the gentle and brave-hearted man
Who goes about doing the good that he can."

Bierly, arrested last Saturday in Emmitsburg by State Officer Truman Moon, also paid an additional fine of $5 for reckless driving. Bierly pleaded guilty to the drunken driving charge and innocent of reckless driving.

BIG TREES

BIG, old trees have always fascinated me. They always inspire me. They tell such a glorious story of endurance. Winds, storms, droughts — yet there they stand! It is worth a trip to California just to see those mighty sequoia trees that have lasted throughout the centuries — some of them for more than 2,000 years. It is difficult to believe.

When in Honolulu last Winter I saw some of the biggest Banyan trees that I had ever seen. There was one just in front of the Moana Hotel, and one on a side street that Stevenson used to love. Each hugged the earth, with its spreading roots and overhanging branches, like a huge umbrella.

In the forest, trees creep, or rather reach, higher and higher — to get the full benefit of the Sunlight, because it gives life to the tree. Most trees will die unless they get the Sun. The more we, as human beings, search for and gain the light, the higher we rise and the more of life we see and understand.

The sturdy Hemlock is one of the mightiest and most useful of all trees. It thrives where many another variety would give up the ghost and retire at an early stage in its life. It is a tree of much character, too. It has a rugged bark and its limbs are not overly long, but its green coat has long been famous. The song of the wind through its branches is endowed with an unforgettable strain of beauty — soft in melody.

Another inspiring tree is the noble Elm. New England is rich in them, and in some of the older towns they lock arms above the wide streets, and you feel so happily welcome there. The graceful parting of the great limbs of the Elm, not far from the ground, is a wonderful sight.

One of the loveliest of trees is the Horse Chestnut, when in full leaf, and with its clustered, blooming flowers. Akin to it is the flowering Tulip tree. Several are among my Spring and Summer friends, when I am at home. The latter is delicate in perfume when in flower.

Of all of Nature's gifts none are more influential than its trees. We feel a friendliness toward them always, and they help to make us friendly toward our human friends.

One Is Beloved

—BY FRANCES SHELLEY WEES—

YESTERDAY: The first enchantment of the honeymoon has been broken for both Sue and Bob. Then Pat goes to the hospital and Allen's son is stillborn.

Chapter 23
A Lesson

HIS grief was a revelation to Sue. She had not dreamed he had so wanted a child. Once he was assured that his wife was no longer in danger, Allen gave himself up unrestrictedly to his bitter disappointment.

"You mustn't, Buddy, you mustn't! Think of poor Pats, how much harder it's going to be for her!"

He stared at her incredulously. "Pats disappointed! She's hoped for this very thing all along — made no secret about it! But I — it's my last hope of fatherhood, Sis. No woman who dislikes children as Pats does will ever give safe birth to one!"

"He's pretty bitter," Bob observed as he drove his tired wife home. "I think he's unjust to Pats, too. No matter how she felt beforehand, she'd have loved her baby after it came."

Sue agreed with him. It seemed beyond the bounds of credibility that any mother could fail to adore her own child. But when she was at last admitted to her sister-in-law's room, and the invalid graciously chose to ignore their last meeting, Sue received enlightenment.

"I suppose you and Allen are mingling your tears these days, aren't you? Well, I'm not going to be a hypocrite about it. I said from the beginning I didn't want a baby, and heaven knows nothing I've gone through with all these months has changed me. I'd have done my best by it, if it had lived; since it didn't, I don't see the sense of looking solemn, and acting as though there'd been a death in the family."

Sue said briefly: "There has been!"

"There hasn't!" Pats' voice was angry. "It never even drew a breath, Dr. Baker told me so! Now, Sue, if you're going to uphold Allen in this foolishness—"

Her nurse slid in quietly from beyond the partly open door.

"You're getting too excited, Mrs. Davenport. Our doctor will scold us if he finds our pulse fast when he comes this evening. Perhaps Mrs. Trenton had better let you rest now—"

Sue went no more to the hospital. But Cecily went! Allen reported disgustedly that she was there every day; that she kept Pats' room looking like a florist's shop; that fruit and candies and mysterious packages which Pats refused gayly to let him open, poured in in a steady stream.

"She asked me the other day if you never came to see Pats," he said. "She actually had the nerve! 'Where's your sister these days, Allen? I've been hoping to run across her when she was paying her daily visit to the hospital'!"

Bob came up just in time to hear this.

"I hope you told her it was none of her confounded business!"

"I told her — I don't know what I said," he replied, running a tired hand across his forehead. "Something about the number of visitors being limited. I dread to have Pats come home. That Cecily woman will be all over the place."

'Strictly Feminine'

Bob looked suddenly truculent. "Look here! I'll tell her to stay away. I'm responsible — at least I suppose I am — for her being in town. It's up to me to keep her from annoying you, Allen."

"Bob, that's the last thing you must do! You're the last person to do it, in any case. And it wouldn't accomplish a thing. Patsy will see Cecily as often as she pleases, whether Allen likes it or not. No, I've told you both before: the only thing to do is to wait till she's tired of St. Joseph and goes her way. It'll be September next week. Surely she'll be making her plans for the winter soon. If we just sit tight and keep our dignity a bit longer, this will all blow over."

Sue proved herself a true prophet. Mrs. Meade Trenton vanished from the city almost as suddenly as she had appeared. Whether she was bored by Patsy's vacuity, whether she recognized that neither Sue nor Bob intended to allow her to make them angry, or whether, as Sue had said, she had plans which now pressed, the result was the same; she sold her car, gave up her furnished house, and was driven to Kansas City where she took a plane for New York.

Ensued a bad time for Allen's wife. With returning strength she shed her lacy robes and negligees; had need of a new fall wardrobe. She called Sue sweetly and asked her to come in for lunch. Sue as sweetly refused. The invitation was repeated, and again refused. Then Pats took the matter up with Allen and he came out to see his sister.

"Aren't you treating Pats a little badly? You've seen her only once since — since the hospital. She told me last night she was trying her best to be friends with you, Sue. I know she's not your sort, I know she was most disloyal to you, but she's my wife." He sighed unconsciously. "I suppose she does the best she knows, Sis. You can't put a quart into a pint measure."

"Allen, you keep out of this! I'm disciplining Pats. If I let her get by with this, she'll be out of hand forever. I know her better than you can ever hope to do — don't contradict me! — because she's a woman, and I'm a woman. Trust me, Allen!"

She was a little startled at the long steady look he gave her.

"More to this than I know about, Sue?"

The first really mirthful smile her lips had known for many days deepened their corners now.

"We-ell — in a way, Buddy! But it's strictly a feminine way, and nothing for you to meddle with."

She was puzzled at the stark relief in his eyes.

"I'll leave her in your hands then; they're kind little hands, Sue, if somewhat apt to box the ears of bad little girls."

Even Bob reproached her presently.

"Goodness knows I have no love for Pats, but she's your brother's wife, Sue. Unless you want a permanent estrangement—"

Sue was exasperated.

"Will you men keep out of this? I warned Pats last summer that she'd have need of me and now she has. That need is going to become a lot more acute than it is at present before I give in. I don't fool myself that I can make Patsy over; but I do have every intention of making her treat me with ordinary civility."

"What does she want of you, Sue?"

"Clothes," was the succinct answer. "Heaps and heaps of new fall clothes. She counted on Cecily to get them for her, and Cecily didn't. Now I am going to teach that young lady a much needed lesson."

'Threadbare'

In this she was cheered on enthusiastically by Barbara Webb who was present one afternoon when Pats, despairing of bringing Sue to her, took herself to Sue. Rain was falling and the two girls were cosily sipping tea beside the fire in Sue's upstairs sanctuary, when Pats came in without being announced.

"Don't scold Nelly," she said gaily. "She did her very best to shunt me into the reception room until she had your august permission to let me come up. How are you, Sue darling?" She enveloped the younger girl in arms which were last winter's coat. "Look at it," she bade the others gallantly. "Practically threadbare, isn't it?"

"It looks good as new to me," Barbara remarked bluntly. "It was new last Easter. I remember perfectly. I happened to be with you when you coaxed Sue to buy it."

"But it's horribly out of style! The fashions are so different this fall. I felt positively conspicuous in it, wearing it out here."

"Will you have some tea, Patsy?" Sue's tone was expressionless.

"I suppose I'll have to. I suppose there is no hope of a cocktail!"

"Two lumps? Are you sure you were wise to come out in this rain?"

Patsy sighed. "I'm never wise, Sue; I should think you of all people would know that. But I am a good friend," she went on virtuously, stirring her tea. "I said to Allen: 'Allen, I'm afraid I've hurt Sue's feelings. It makes me terribly unhappy to be at outs with people I love.' So — I never even looked to see whether it was raining or not. I didn't turn back even when I found it was coming down in torrents. I just hopped into the car—"

"What does Allen do when you use the car?" Barbara interrupted.

Patsy shot her an angry look. Sue alone was hard enough to bend to her will, but Sue, reinforced by Barbara's presence, was doubly difficult. Nevertheless Pats went brightly on.

"I don't believe you've realized, Sue dear, how long you've neglected me. Allen feels it keenly. 'My two girls,' he's said to me over and over, 'my wife and my sister — it would break my heart if they weren't friends'."

Her two listeners greeted this pathetic outburst with brood grins.

"I can just hear Allen saying it," Barbara commented.

Nurse Is Well Again After 4 Years in Cast

McKeesport, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP)—Nurse Johanna Kostyzak is living in a bright new world and "looking forward to 1940 as one of the best years of my life."

She's walking again after being flat on her back nearly four years due to a hip injury. What's more, she plans soon to resume her nursing career along with getting married.

A fall on a slippery sidewalk back in the spring of 1935 almost ruined the life of the tall and bright-eyed Miss Kostyzak who is almost 28 years old.

Her injured hip didn't trouble her at first, and she continued to work in McKeesport and for a short time in New York before a mysterious infection set in.

Then followed three solid years in a cast, unable to turn from one side to the other, but that failed to break Miss Kostyzak's spirit.

Finally last month, after hobbling around for some time on crutches, she was permitted to take her first steps alone. There's still a decided limp but doctors think that will disappear eventually.

Miss Kostyzak had been nursing about three years when the accident occurred. To keep her courage while a helpless invalid she conducted a regular correspondence with other shut-ins all over the country.

"Now that I'm able to get about a little bit," she said, "I'm visiting a lot of people around here that I used to write to."

On the slim fingers of this plucky nurse gleams a solitary diamond, but ask her who's the man and when's the wedding and she only smiles "it's a secret."

BLAZE DAMAGES NEW COAL TRUCK

While its tank was being filled with gasoline, a trailer-truck hauling ten tons of coal caught fire Thursday night at Stark's gas station near Frogtown school, two miles southwest of Rana Villa, on the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road.

George Shibe, of Williamstown, attendant at the gas station, suffered singed eyebrows when the fire flared from beneath the truck's cab. Lower Allen firemen responded to an alarm, but the fire was not under control before the truck, a new one, had been damaged to the extent of $800. The entire cab was destroyed.

Driver of the truck was Guy Schreffler, of Pillow. He was not hurt. Owner of the truck is Foster Witman, of Harrisburg. The cargo of coal was enroute from Valley View, Schuylkill county, to Baltimore.

IF THROAT IS SORE

IF A COLD has given you a miserable sore throat, here's how to relieve the suffering.

DO THIS NOW—Melt a small lump of VapoRub on your tongue and feel the comforting medication slowly trickle down your throat—bathing the irritated membranes—bringing blessed relief where you want it, when you want it.

Report Dr. Dafoe Has Resigned as Dionne Guardian

Callander Ont Dec 29 (AP)—Dr Allan Roy Dafoe was reported reliably today to have resigned as one of the Dionne quintuplets guardians

"I cannot say anything until it becomes official," commented the gray-haired physician who has cared for the famous children since their birth May 28 1934

He declared last Saturday that he had been seeking for two years to be relieved of his duties as one of the three guardians named by the state

He said he would prefer to be free to watch their health and personal well being and not bother with business arrangements as at present

Premier Mitchell Hepburn said he had no information that an agreement had been reached between Doctor Dafoe and the quintuplets father Oliva Dionne

Some sources here said an understanding had been reached whereby Doctor Dafoe would resign as guardian and Dionne would drop court action against the doctor in connection with contracts allegedly involving the quintuplets' names

Premier Hepburn said retirement as guardian was entirely up to Doctor Dafoe but added "as long as the present government is in office he will continue to be personal physician to the quints That is one thing certain

The other guardians Judge J A Valin and Percy Wilson declined comment

An Announcement

In order to maintain the high standard of banking observed generally in Adams County, the Banks have been obliged to consider the advisability of reducing the rate of interest on Time Deposits to 2% per annum

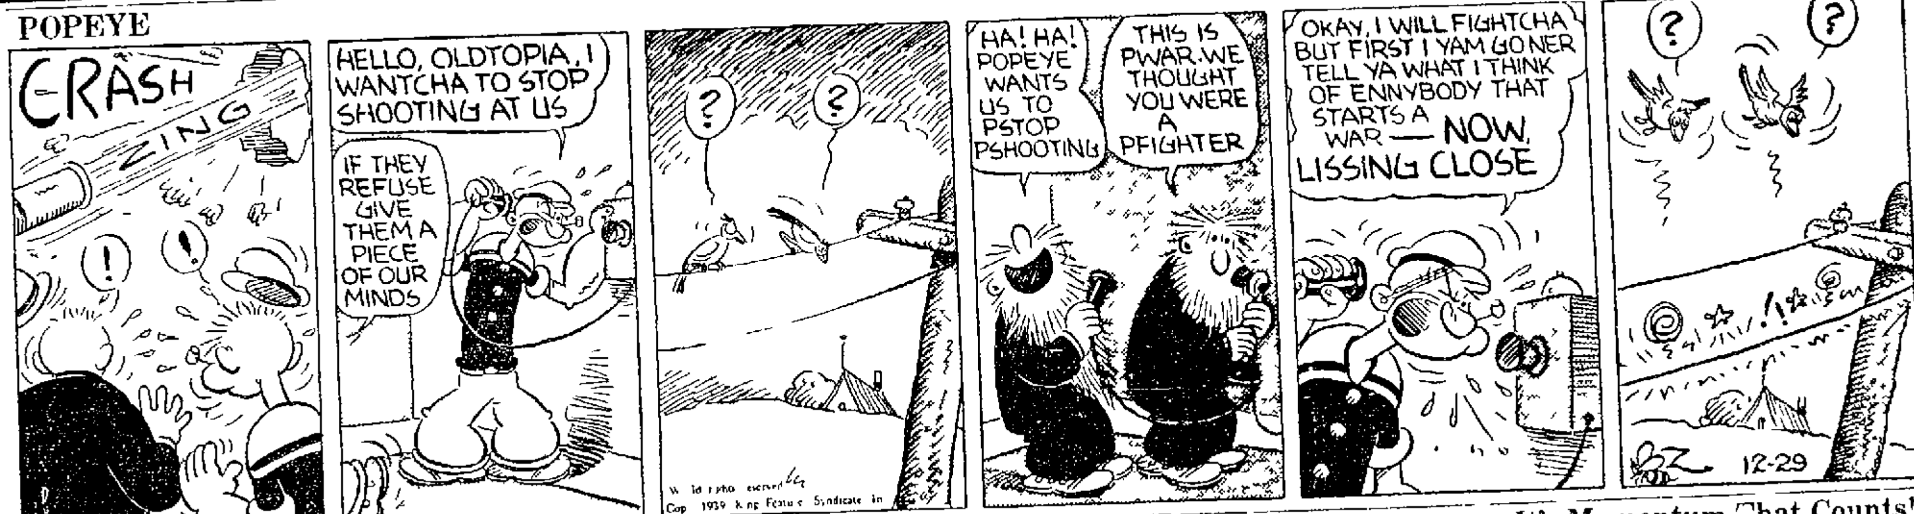

The reduced rate of income on high-grade securities, the cost of Federal Deposit Insurance, shorter hours and minimum wages, higher taxes and Social Security payments are among the principal reasons making it necessary for the Banks to follow the course taken by other Banks in our neighboring communities in pursuance of sound banking policies

Accordingly, on and after January 1, 1940, interest on Time Deposits — both Savings Pass Book and Time Certificate Accounts — will be paid by the undersigned Banks at the rate of 2% per annum.

Report Dr. Dafoe Has Resigned as Dionne Guardian

Callander, Ont., Dec. 29 (AP)—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe was reported reliably today to have resigned as one of the Dionne quintuplets' guardians.

"I cannot say anything until it becomes official," commented the gray-haired physician who has cared for the famous children since their birth May 28, 1934.

He declared last Saturday that he had been seeking for two years to be relieved of his duties as one of the three guardians named by the state.

He said he would prefer to be "free to watch their health and personal well-being and not bother with business arrangements as at present."

Premier Mitchell Hepburn, said he had no information that an agreement had been reached between Doctor Dafoe and the quintuplets' father, Oliva Dionne.

Some sources here said an understanding had been reached whereby Doctor Dafoe would resign as guardian and Dionne would drop court action against the doctor in connection with contracts allegedly involving the quintuplets' names.

Premier Hepburn said retirement as guardian was entirely up to Doctor Dafoe, but added, "as long as the present government is in office he will continue to be personal physician to the quints. That is one thing certain."

The other guardians, Judge J. A. Valin and Percy Wilson, declined comment.

CONSOLATION

Meadville, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP)—Two months ago Percy Himes found his cockers spaniel dog dead on a highway. The collar had been removed. Christmas another pup was delivered to his house, apparently sent by the motorist whose car killed the man's pet.

An Announcement

In order to maintain the high standard of banking observed generally in Adams County, the Banks have been obliged to consider the advisability of reducing the rate of interest on Time Deposits to 2% per annum.

The reduced rate of income on high-grade securities, the cost of Federal Deposit Insurance, shorter hours and minimum wages, higher taxes and Social Security payments are among the principal reasons making it necessary for the Banks to follow the course taken by other Banks in our neighboring communities in pursuance of sound banking policies.

Accordingly, on and after January 1, 1940, interest on Time Deposits — both Savings Pass Book and Time Certificate Accounts — will be paid by the undersigned Banks at the rate of 2% per annum.

CRANKMIRE ON MEN

Said Old Crankmire: "We hear about gunfire and gas
And the evils of nations and men in the mass.
We hear of explosions and ships sunk at sea
Which proves just how cruel we humans can be,
But it's only the few ever hear of the man
Who goes about doing the good that he can.

"In nations and races mankind at the best,
Has little to boast of it must be confessed.
All history tells us they've slaughtered and slain
Their fellows in warfare advantage to gain.
But left to himself every man of the clan
Is eager to do all the good that he can.

"As a neighbor, a man will go out of his way
To all who may need it a kind word to say.
He'll think of the lonely, the sick and the sad
He'll stick to the bargain which proves to be bad.
In matters of honor he'll keep to his word,
Which nations and races consider absurd.

"Mankind in the mass seems a horrible thing,
But it's not to that sort of a fellow I cling.
My hope's in that man which all neighborhoods know.
The friend in the dark hours of trouble and woe,
The kind and the gentle and brave-hearted man

PAYS $100 FINE

L. A. Bierly, Iron Springs, was fined $100 on a drunken driving charge at a hearing before Magistrate Frank J. Campbell in Emmitsburg Tuesday evening. Bierly, arrested last Saturday in Emmitsburg by State Officer Truman Moon, also paid an additional fine of $5 for reckless driving. Bierly pleaded guilty to the drunken driving charge and innocent of reckless driving.

BIG TREES

BIG, old trees have always fascinated me. They always inspire me. They tell such a glorious story of endurance. Winds, storms, droughts — yet there they stand! It is worth a trip to California just to see those mighty sequoia trees that have lasted throughout the centuries — some of them for more than 2,000 years. It is difficult to believe.

When in Honolulu last Winter I saw some of the biggest Banyan trees that I had ever seen. There was one just in front of the Moana Hotel, and one on a side street that Stevenson used to love. Each hugged the earth, with its spreading roots and overhanging branches, like a huge umbrella.

In the forest, trees creep, or rather reach, higher and higher — to get the full benefit of the Sunlight, because it gives life to the tree. Most trees will die unless they get the Sun. The more we, as human beings, search for and gain the light, the higher we rise and the more of life we see and understand.

The sturdy Hemlock is one of the mightiest and most useful of all trees. It thrives where many another variety would give up the ghost and retire at an early stage in its life. It is a tree of much character, too. It has a rugged bark and its limbs are not overly long, but its green coat has long been famous. The song of the wind through its branches is endowed with an unforgettable strain of beauty — soft in melody.

Another inspiring tree is the noble Elm. New England is rich in them, and in some of the older towns they look arms above the wide streets, and you feel so happily welcome there. The graceful parting of the great limbs of the Elm, not far from the ground, is a wonderful sight.

One of the loveliest of trees is the Horse Chestnut, when in full leaf, and with its clustered, blooming flowers. Akin to it is the flowering Tulip tree. Several are among my Spring and Summer friends, when I am at home. The latter is delicate in perfume when in flower.

Of all of Nature's gifts none are more influential than its trees. We feel a friendliness toward them always, and they help to make us friendly toward our human friends.

One Is Beloved

—BY FRANCES SHELLEY WEES—

YESTERDAY: The first enchantment of the honeymoon has been broken for both Sue and Bob. Then Pat goes to the hospital and Allen's son is stillborn.

Chapter 23

A Lesson

HIS grief was a revelation to Sue. She had not dreamed he had so wanted a child. Once he was assured that his wife was no longer in danger, Allen gave himself up unrestrictedly to his bitter disappointment.

"You mustn't, Buddy, you mustn't! Think of poor Pats, how much harder it's going to be for her!"

He stared at her incredulously. "Pats disappointed! She's hoped for this very thing all along — made no secret about it! But I — it's my last hope of fatherhood, Sis. No woman who dislikes children as Pats does will ever give safe birth to one!"

"He's pretty bitter," Bob observed as he drove his tired wife home. "I think he's unjust to Pats, too. No matter how she felt beforehand, she'd have loved her baby, after it came."

She agreed with him. It seemed beyond the bounds of credibility that any mother could fail to adore her own child. But when she was at last admitted to her sister-in-law's room, and the invalid graciously chose to ignore their last meeting, Sue received enlightenment.

"I suppose you and Allen are mingling your tears these days, aren't you? Well, I'm not going to be a hypocrite about it. I said from the beginning I didn't want a baby, and heaven knows nothing I've gone through with all these months has changed me. I'd have done my best by it, if it had lived; since it didn't, I don't see the sense of looking solemn, and acting as though there'd been a death in the family."

Sue said briefly: "There has been!"

"There hasn't!" Pats' voice was angry. "It never even drew a breath, Dr. Baker told me so! Now, Sue, if you're going to uphold Allen, in this foolishness—"

Her nurse slid in quietly from beyond the partly open door.

"You're getting too excited, Mrs. Davenport. Our doctor will scold us if he finds our pulse fast when he comes this evening. Perhaps Mrs. Trenton had better let you rest now—"

Sue went no more to the hospital. But Cecily went! Allen reported disgustedly that she was there every day; that she kept Pats' room looking like a florist's shop; that fruit and candies and mysterious packages which Pats refused gayly to let him open, poured in in a steady stream.

"She asked me the other day if you never came to see Pats," he said. "She actually had the nerve! 'Where's your sister these days, Allen? I've been hoping to run across her when she was paying her daily visit to the hospital!'"

Bob came up just in time to hear this.

"I hope you told her it was none of her confounded business!"

"I told her — I don't know what I said," he replied, running a tired hand across his forehead. "Something about the number of visitors being limited. I dread to have Pats come home. That Cecily woman will be all over the place."

'Strictly Feminine'

Bob looked suddenly truculent. "Look here! I'll tell her to stay away. I'm responsible — at least I suppose I am — for her being in town. It's up to me to keep her from annoying you, Allen."

"Bob, that's the last thing you must do! You're the last person to do it, in any case. And it wouldn't accomplish a thing. Patsy will see Cecily as often as she pleases, whether Allen likes it or not. No, I've told you both before: the only thing to do is to wait till she's tired of St. Joseph and goes her way. It'll be September next week. Surely she'll be making her plans for the winter soon. If we just sit tight and keep our dignity a bit longer, this will all blow over."

Sue proved herself a true prophet. Mrs. Meade Trenton vanished from the city almost as suddenly as she had appeared. Whether she was bored by Patsy's vacuity, whether she recognized that neither Sue nor Bob intended to allow her to make them angry, or whether, as Sue had said, she had plans which now pressed, the result was the same; she sold her car, gave up her furnished house, and was driven to Kansas City where she took a plane for New York.

Ensued a bad time for Allen's wife. With returning strength she shed her lacy robes and negligees; had need of a new fall wardrobe. She called Sue sweetly and asked her to come in for lunch. Sue as sweetly refused. The invitation was repeated, and again refused. Then Pats took the matter up with Allen, and he came out to see his sister.

"Aren't you treating Pats a little badly? You've seen her only once since — since the hospital. She told me last night she was trying her best to be friends with you, Sue. I know she's not your sort, I know she was most disloyal to you, but she's my wife." He sighed unconsciously. "I suppose she does the best she knows, Sis. You can't put a quart into a pint measure."

"Allen, you keep out of this! I'm disciplining Pats. If I let her get by with this, she'll be out of hand forever. I know her better than you can ever hope to do — don't contradict me! — because she's a woman, and I'm a woman. Trust me, Allen!"

She was a little startled at the long, steady look he gave her.

"More to this than I know about, Sue?"

The first really mirthful smile her lips had known for many days deepened their corners now.

"We-ell — in a way, Buddy! But it's strictly a feminine way, and nothing for you to meddle with."

She was puzzled at the stark relief in his eyes.

"I'll leave her in your hands then; they're kind little hands, Sue, if somewhat apt to box the ears of bad little girls."

Even Bob reproached her presently.

"Goodness knows I have no love for Pats, but she's your brother's wife, Sue. Unless you want a permanent estrangement—"

Sue was exasperated.

"Will you men keep out of this? I warned Pats last summer that she'd have need of me and now she has. That need is going to become a lot more acute than it is at present before I give in. I don't fool myself that I can make Patsy over; but I do have every intention of making her treat me with ordinary civility."

"What does she want of you, Sue?"

"Clothes," was the succinct answer. "Heaps and heaps of new fall clothes. She counted on Cecily to get them for her, and Cecily didn't. Now, I am going to teach that young lady a much needed lesson."

'Threadbare'

In this she was cheered on enthusiastically by Barbara Webb who was present one afternoon when Pats, despairing of bringing Sue to her, took herself to Sue. Rain was falling and the two girls were cosily sipping tea beside the fire in Sue's upstairs sanctuary, when Pats came in without being announced.

"Don't scold Nelly," she said gaily. "She did her very best to shunt me into the reception room until she had your august permission to let me come up. How are you, Sue, darling?" She enveloped the younger girl in arms which wore last winter's coat. "Look at it," she bade the others gallantly. "Practically threadbare, isn't it?"

"It looks good as new to me," Barbara remarked bluntly. "It was new last Easter, I remember perfectly. I happened to be with you when you coaxed Sue to buy it."

"But it's horribly out of style! The fashions are so different this fall. I felt positively conspicuous in it, wearing it out here."

"Will you have some tea, Patsy?" Sue's tone was expressionless.

"I suppose I'll have to. I suppose there is no hope of a cocktail!"

"Two lumps? Are you sure you were wise to come out in this rain?"

Patsy sighed. "I'm never wise, Sue; I should think you of all people would know that. But I am a good friend," she went on virtuously, stirring her tea. "I said to Allen: 'Allen, I'm afraid I've hurt Sue's feelings. It makes me terribly unhappy to be at outs with people I love.' So — I never even looked to see whether it was raining or not. I didn't turn back even when I found it was coming down in torrents. I just hopped into the car—"

"What does Allen do when you use the car?" Barbara interrupted.

Patsy shot her an angry look. Sue alone was hard enough to bend to her will, but Sue, reinforced by Barbara's presence, was doubly difficult. Nevertheless Pats went brightly on.

"I don't believe you've realized, Sue dear, how long you've neglected me. Allen feels it keenly. 'My two girls,' he's said to me over and over, 'my wife and my sister — it would break my heart if they weren't friends'."

Her two listeners greeted this pathetic outburst with brood grins.

"I can just hear Allen saying it," Barbara commented.

Nurse Is Well Again After 4 Years in Cast

McKeesport, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP)—Nurse Johanna Kostyzak is living in a bright new world and "looking forward to 1940 as one of the best years of my life."

She's walking again after being flat on her back nearly four years due to a hip injury. What's more, she plans soon to resume her nursing career, along with getting married.

A fall on a slippery sidewalk back in the spring of 1935 almost ruined the life of the tall and bright-eyed Miss Kostyzak who is almost 28 years old.

Her injured hip didn't trouble her at first, and she continued to work in McKeesport and for a short time in New York before a mysterious infection set in.

Then followed three solid years in a cast, unable to turn from one side to the other, but that failed to break Miss Kostyzak's spirit.

Finally last month, after hobbling around for some time on crutches, she was permitted to take her first steps alone. There's still a decided limp but doctors think that will disappear eventually.

Miss Kostyzak had been nursing about three years when the accident occurred. To keep her courage while a helpless invalid she conducted a regular correspondence with other shut-ins all over the country.

"Now that I'm able to get about a little bit," she said, "I'm visiting a lot of people around here that I used to write to."

On the slim fingers of this plucky nurse gleams a solitary diamond, but ask her who's the man and when's the wedding and she only smiles. "It's a secret."

BLAZE DAMAGES NEW COAL TRUCK

While its tank was being filled with gasoline, a trailer-truck hauling ten tons of coal caught fire Thursday night at Stark's gas station near Froglown school, two miles southwest of Rana Villa, on the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road.

George Shibe, of Williamstown, attendant at the gas station, suffered singed eyebrows when the fire flared from beneath the truck's cab. Lower Allen firemen responded to an alarm, but the fire was not under control before the truck, a new one, had been damaged to the extent of $800. The entire cab was destroyed.

Driver of the truck was Guy Schreffler, of Pillow. He was not hurt. Owner of the truck is Foster Witman, of Harrisburg. The cargo of coal was enroute from Valley View, Schuylkill county, to Baltimore.

QUALITY OF SLEEP

Columbus, O., Dec. 29 (AP)—Six hours of "high quality" sleep will leave you feeling better in the morning than eight hours of restless slumber. Weston A. Rousfield, of the University of Connecticut, declared today in a report to the American Association for the advancement of Science that the quality of sleep was more important to your feeling on awakening than the number of hours.

MUM'S THE WORD

LOOKING AT THE BRIGHTER SIDE OF 1940

Nineteen-forty turns its brighter side toward the United States, and its darker side toward most of the rest of the world.

Obviously, no one can foresee the course of future events. While our hopes are for an early and just peace abroad, we must concentrate upon the duties and problems confronting us at home, realizing that conditions here will be profoundly affected by the situation there.

Also, as we extend New Year wishes to each other, let us not selfishly put the emphasis upon happiness, but rather upon worthiness—that we may each prove worthy of our opportunities and our responsibilities.

Sports Roundup

(Putting One Little Dot After Another for Eddie Brietz)

Denver, Dec. 30 (AP).—Two of the greatest cage outfits in this basketball-batty nation will polish the city auditorium boards Monday night . . . The national champion Denver Nuggets will tie into their fiercest rivals, the Bartlesville, Oklahoma, Phillips, in a Missouri Valley A.A.U. league contest . . . Just to show you how tough this A.A.U. circuit can be, Don Shields, a big star with Temple's national inter-collegiate champions in 1938 and now in his second year with Phillips, failed to land among the league's top 18 scorers last season . . .

Is the mountain Big Seven conference trying to snatch the title of the "passingiest" football league from the southwest loop? . . . This season the seven elevens tossed 618 passes in 21 conference games and completed 42 per cent . . . In 1938 they fired only 399 for 32.5 per cent completions . . . As a former Tennessee assistant coach, Bunny Oakes, who skippered Colorado across waves of criticism to the Big Seven crown, has been invited to sit on the Volunteers' bench Monday . . . California and St. Mary's will help Utah and Utah State dedicate their new field house with basketball doubleheaders January 8 and 9 . . .

Just a-wishin': Says Coach Doug Fessenden of Montana university: "All I want, and I hope to die, is a full schedule in the Pacific coast conference, restoration to full membership therein, and the sweetest squad of freshman football material of all the schools in the loop" . . . Sure there's nothing else, coach? . . .

Tennessee may view with woe
A Rose Bowl game without Cafego;
But maybe the Vols will dodge the rocks.

After all, they've got Bob Foxx.

(Who is this bard Brietz?) . . . We'll bet Major Neyland would cheerfully part with that good "knee" in his Monicker if it might be grafted onto Cafego's damaged pin . . .

Do tell division: Hardin, Montana, high school has an Indian basketball player named Hugh Plenty Hoops . . . Clay Puett, who invented the stall starting gate used at Pimlico and Bowie this season, is from Colorado and used to be a cowboy . . . A chap named Gunning—C. A. of Longmont—is Colorado's trapshoot singles champion . . . Monday's East-West game will be the 14th Lloyd Yoder has been connected with as a player, sideline helper and official . . . Yoder, general manager of Denver's station KOA, will be head linesman this time . . . Baylor will be the first big Texas team to invade high-altitude gridirons in modern times, playing Denver in a night game here next October 4.

Today's guest star: Poss Parsons, Denver Post: "Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, who was an advocate of 'ten cent football,' should feel very proud of himself for swinging the trustees into line and dropping a sport which made Chicago famous. He should be compelled to organize a tiddlewinks team and play with it himself. That would go over big in Chicago's fine 55,000-seat stadium" . . . Poss played in the backfield for the 1912-14 Iowa teams that had some great games with Alonza Stagg's Maroons . . .

Looks as though Denver may keep the national A.A.U. basketball tournament as long as it wants it . . . Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City are reported ready to bid for it when Denver steps out . . . Bob Gruenig, the Nuggets' all-American center, is one of the few A.A.U. players who never went to college . . . We've watched five national tourneys and never saw a more dangerous scorer than this good-humored beanpole . . . Bill Reed coached the Loveland, Colorado, high school gridders 20 years before they finally won the state title for him this season . . . When Reed coached at Manteno, Illinois, he had one lad who was full of ambition but short in poundage . . . This turned out to be "Clipper" Smith, now coach at Villanova . . . And now to all who had the patience to come this far—here's to a swell 1940.

WRITER SEES 2 NEIGHBORS HELPING FINNS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The Russo-Finnish war is experiencing pronounced growing-pains.

There is a tendency toward expansion westward to draw in Sweden and Norway as allies of their small neighbor. Such an alliance may eventuate unless Russian is able to cope with the Finnish flying death on skis and secure a decisive Red victory in the immediate future.

Ever since the communists invaded Finland a month ago Sweden and Norway have been living in dread that the Soviet might try to reach still further and impose its will on them, as well as on eastern Poland, the three Baltic states and Finland.

Each day that the conflict is protracted now increases the danger of Swedish-Norwegian intervention.

Side With Finland

Sweden and Norway have been treading the straight and narrow path of neutrality, being in a precarious position as regards both Russia and Germany. However, the amount of unofficial aid which has been going forward to Finland from both these countries, in the way of money, supplies and volunteer troops, leaves no doubt as to the sympathies of the general publics.

The main fear of Sweden and Norway is that any support, even unofficial, given to Finland may draw fire from Germany. A German foreign office spokesman has charged England with inciting Finland to resist Russia, so to cut off nazi supplies from northern Europe. Germany gets many essentials, especially the all important iron ore, from Sweden.

However, should Germany retaliate by striking at the Scandinavian countries, they automatically would become allies of the Anglo-French brotherhood. As such they would receive the full support of England and France.

Would Help Allies

While there has been no official intimation, one is entitled to suspect that a matter of such vital importance must have been discussed between the Anglo-French team and the Scandinavian countries. One would further think it would suit the plans of Britain and France admirably to have Sweden and Norway give their full support to Finland, since any contingency which keeps the communists from serving Germany, and cuts that nation off from northern supplies, is all to the good from the Anglo-French standpoint.

Motorists May Ignore Question On Citizenship

Harrisburg, Dec. 30 (AP)—Motorists applying for 1940 driver licenses may ignore the question on their application blanks relating to citizenship.

Charles M. Dougherty, director of the bureau of motor vehicles, explained today that employes issuing the new driver cards have been instructed to disregard the question: "Are you an American citizen?"

The question was printed on the applications as a result of the 1939 legislature's enactment of a law requiring practically all alien residents of the commonwealth to register with the state Department of Labor and Industry, and carry registration cards. One of the penalties for failure to register would have been refusal of automobile owners' and drivers' licenses.

However, a three-judge federal court at Scranton recently held the law was unconstitutional. The state is appealing to the United States Supreme court.

Some 2,800,000 driver license applications bearing the citizenship query were mailed out this week.

"We'll just ignore that question," said Dougherty. If it's answered, all right, and if it's not, that's all right, too."

He said that if the supreme court reverses the lower federal court's decision, "we'll have to go after the aliens in future applications."

Deputy Attorney General William S. Rial said the appeal "will not be ready until next week or week after that."
